Note: All dollar figures herein refer to U.S. currency. Yen amounts have been translated, for convenience only, at the rate of ¥111 to $1. Billion is used in the American sense of one thousand million.

To Our Stockholders

During the first half of the current fiscal year, the U.S. economy showed some recovery helped by growing consumer spendings, whereas some economies slowed down in Europe and Asia. Meanwhile, though the latter part of the first half-year brought encouraging signs that the Japanese economy was bottoming as capital expenditure increased and stock prices recovered, the overall outlook remained severe, with consumer spendings still sluggish.

In this economic environment, Toray reported a 7.2% year-on-year increase in consolidated net sales in the first half to ¥534.3 billion, a 95.5% increase in operating income to ¥24.7 billion, a 191.7% increase in income before special credits to ¥23.0 billion, and a 754.6% increase in net income to ¥10.9 billion.

Our "Project New TORAY21" (or "Project NT21") management reform program, launched in April 2002, has been making faster progress than originally planned. Half-year sales, operating income, income before special credits, and net income increased on a year-on-year basis, and surpassed our initial estimates.

Toray kept its interim dividend unchanged from the previous fiscal year at ¥2.5 per share.

"Project NT21" is an action plan designed to guide the re-engineering of our business to be in step with the 21st century against a background of China's emergence as an economic power, which is shifting the world from a cyclical economy to a deflationary one in which there is persistent oversupply of goods. Toray is moving ahead with actions to address near-term issues and generate tangible results over the project's first two years and those to address medium-term issues and generate concrete results over a time span of three to five years as separate tasks of "Project NT21".

Our most urgent near-term issue is promoting drastic reinforcement of the corporate structure. We are focusing our resources on seven initiatives: "promoting marketing innovation", "rationalizing the global production", "strengthening the total cost competitiveness", "re-engineering the Toray Group's business structure", "further strengthening the financial structure", "promoting R&D innovation", and "reforming the wage and pension structures."

At the same time, we are addressing the following three medium-term issues alongside near-term issues and reforms.

First, the Toray Group is focusing its resources on its "Advanced Materials" businesses. Advanced materials are developed by harnessing our core technological skills in organic chemistry, polymer chemistry, and biochemistry in combination with state-of-the-art technologies in pursuit of ultimate performance, such as nanotechnology, and recombinant DNA technology, etc. Our goal is to develop a reputation as a consistent supplier of advanced materials to industries in the three growth areas of "IT-related Products," "Life Sciences," and "Environment, Safety & Amenity."

Second, Toray must transform itself into a "New Value Creator," a new form of business in the 21st century. Our goal is to change our business structure to the one that creates new value by developing new materials and products as well as devising innovative supply chains to offer our customers solutions to their problems.

And third, to expand our operations in China and the ASEAN countries where significant growth is foreseen, we have formed companies to supervise our activities in each of those countries. By giving them considerable autonomy, we have shifted to a structure in which they can expand business and achieve earnings growth largely through their own decisions and strategies.

While we anticipate continued recovery of the U.S. economy in the second half of the current fiscal year, the outlook of the Japanese economy remains clouded, given the slump in consumer spendings, yen appreciation, and threat of rising raw material prices. Under these operating conditions, Toray is committed to strengthening its corporate structure and to re-engineering its business structure under "Project NT21" and will continue working toward further earnings growth. We look forward to the continued support and understanding of stockholders in our endeavor.
